Homes of Comfort

Copyright, 1921. No. 1508-A. —By Adams & Kelly Co.

This home shows individuality, not by freakishness, but by a dignified, unusual design. The long sweep of the roof line and the graceful curve over the Tudor arch of the porch give a graceful dignity to the exterior, and a promise of true comfort within. The light, cheerful living room has openings on three sides for perfect ventilation, and a large coat closet. The cheery fire in the grate bids welcome in winter. There are French doors between living room and dining room. Bedrooms are well ventilated, with an extra closet in the front room, and a big linen closet.

Ohio Realtors Due Here This Afternoon

A special train of Ohio realtors, bound for the realtors' national convention in San Francisco, will be in Omaha two hours this afternoon and will be taken for a 29-mile drive as guests by the Omaha Real Estate board.

There will be 200 in the Ohio party, including President Irving B. Hiett of the national association. The Omaha Real Estate board's reception committee consists of A. F. Rasp, chairman, F. A. Skow, R. D. Clark, Frank B. Heintze, Walter C. Johnson, Max Agor, David Bowman and T. R. Huston.

The Ohio special will arrive at 1:30 and leave at 3:30. The auto tour will be piloted by George Emery, motor cycle officer, with assistants, and the portions of the drive that are not paved will be sprinkled, according to Commissioner Hopkins.

49 Realtors Sign Rules of Listing Exchange

Forty-nine realtors have now signed the rules and regulations of the multiple listing exchange of the Omaha Real Estate board, and more have agreed to sign this week. Twenty-eight signed last week and 21 signed the week before.

This exchange will be put in operation early in June. It is a system whereby every exclusive listing of real estate will be exchanged with every member of the exchange.

The listing agent's obligation to advertise the property and otherwise make an effort to sell it will remain as it is under the single system, according to officers of the Real Estate board.

"It means better service to both the buyer and the seller," Chairman Walsh says. "The seller will have more buyers, and the buyer will have more sellers."

How Will the State Divide This Property?

A PROMINENT Omaha man died recently and left no will. Under Nebraska law his property will now be divided by the state, without regard to the needs and wishes of his survivors. We have prepared a leaflet showing just how the state will distribute your property if you die without a will. You are welcome to a copy. By will you can leave your property in trust so that it will be handled as you desire. Our Trust Officer, Howard Kennedy, will gladly give you complete information.
